Union Fair Next

And the Capital of Knox
County Shifts To the Beautiful Town In Georges Valley

With congenial weather next week the North Knox Horticultural & Agricultural Society hopes to do better than it did last year when Union Fair played to a financial draw. The amount of work put into this event, and the high caliber of the entertainment offered certainly meant a better result than merely coming out even.

The programs will run parallel to those of former years, but this season the midway has been leased outright to Endy Brothers, who have the letting of all concessions except the eating establishments.

Not much has been necessary in the way of repairs and improvements during the Summer, one exception being the laying of a new 14-inch pipe line from the springs on the Barnard place, owned by Melvin Jones, crossing the river to the pressure pump. This involved 700 feet of new pipe, replacing a line which had become corroded and useless. The work was done by the quarry crew, after hours, with Charles Smith as foreman.

The track is in excellent condition, not having been flooded during the Summer.

The highway approach to the fair grounds has received its usual treatment of calcium chloride to keep the dust down to a minimum.

Many trotting horses are already on the scene, the stable facilities being supplemented by a large tent which is leased each season to shelter the equines.

Clarence Leonard enters upon his fifth season as president of the Association, but the dean of them all is Herbert L. Grinnell who has served continuously as secretary for 32 years. The "national game" has given rise to a familiar quotation "good pair to draw to," and that certainly applies to the Leonard-Grinnell combination.

Here's hoping that next week's fair busts all records.

HE WAS DESPONDENT

Shooting himself through the head with a .45 caliber automatic pistol, Edward P. Ricker, Jr., 47, member of the Poland Spring Hotel family, took his life in the bedroom of his home Thursday afternoon. His body was found by his widow, Dorothea Mason Ricker, who rushed into the room when she heard the shot. Mrs. Ricker told police her husband had been despondent for some time. Ricker, a Yale graduate and World War veteran, was many years associated with his father in the management of the family's Poland Spring Hotel property.

SESQUICENTENNIAL IS BOOMING

Camden-Rockport Celebration Starts off
With Colorful Post Ride—Grand Parade
—Bicycle Contest and Old Timers'
Dance To Be Feature

The first highlight of the Camden and Rockport Sesquicentennial started off promptly at 10 o'clock Friday when Forrest Spear as Post Rider of 1741, garbed in brown vest and breeches with leather boots and a tricorn hat mounted his beautiful horse "Kentucky Moonshine" at the Camden Post Office and with the Nathaniel Hooper Bridal Party; the first Physician, Dr. Isaac Bernhardt, 1769; Incorporation of the town of Camden; the first school, 1794; Post mail, 1794; Public Library, 1796; First Meeting House, 1799; opening of the Turnpike, 1802; first parson, 1803; Line Co., 1830; Higgins Livery Stable, 1831; Curtis his pack of special United States mail, left for the Rockport Post Office where he was to deposit his pack and pick up the Rockport mail or a return trip.

George Cunningham is shown at the microphone on the stage on the Rockport waterfront yesterday afternoon on the spot designated as Peter Ott's Tavern where the town meeting of 1780 was re-enacted. Cunningham acted as moderator with Frank H. Ingraham of Rockland, shown in the right background, as Justice of the Peace, and Win Dillingham who acted as town clerk, on the left.

One hundred Camden's citizens took advantage of this special mail while Rockport sent out 50. Many gathered at Post Office Square to waive good-bye to the Rider and to welcome him home again and cameras clicked by the number.

One of the highlights will be the big parade which will start at the Monument, High street, and march down Harbor Hill, through Main and Elm streets to Wood street. Those participating in the parade will form in line at 4 p. m. on Central street and side streets.

A partially complete list of the historical events and personages which will be represented in the parade includes a group of Indians.

PRES. ROOSEVELT'S ROCKLAND VISIT

Coming Here From His Epochal Sea Conference
With Winston Churchill May Tell What Actually Happened—Due In Early Afternoon

President Franklin D. Roosevelt is scheduled to make his second visit to Rockland today, coming this time fresh from his conference "somewhere at sea," with Prime Minister Winston Churchill. The yacht Potomac, bearing the Chief Magistrate, and distinguished members of the Presidential party, anchored at Pulpit Harbor, North Haven, last night, and is expected to arrive in Rockland Harbor during the early afternoon.

Awaiting the President's arrival here will be a corps of 27 staff writers representing the three press associations, and leading newspapers in the East. With them is a host of camera men, radio operators, telegraphers and the usual group which follows in the wake of a Presidential party.

Interest this time is intensified by the probability that the President may launch into further details of the history making conference between the American and British dignitaries on board H. M. S. Prince of Wales.

Broadcasting booths for the National and Columbia chains were set up in the vacant freight shed on Tillson wharf last night, and in addition to the detailed news accounts which will be published all over the world today—under a Rockland, Maine, date line—radio listeners everywhere will be able to hear first hand every important detail connected with the President's visit.

As was the case several years ago when President Roosevelt paid his first visit to Rockland, the city is alive with Secret Service men, State Police and other officials whose duty it is to safeguard the Chief Executive's welfare. An early arrival last night was Col. Edward Starling, Secret Service executive, who so ably handled the details of Mr. Roosevelt's first visit here. On that occasion Secret Service men were in the city for nearly two weeks before his coming, and every last detail received attention.

The first intimation that President Roosevelt would make Rockland his first landing place after the momentous sea trip came in the form of inquiries from a radio broadcasting corporation.

And coincident with their inquiries came the first information as to the whereabouts of the Presidential yacht Potomac.

While the whole world was speculating as to where the famous conference took place, and as to where the Potomac might land the Presidential party, the craft was lying safely at anchor off Conary's Island in Eggemoggin Reach. There she remained Thursday night—the rest of Penobscot Bay in ignorance of the distinguished visitor.

A special message from Editor Robbins of the Deer Isle Messenger informed The Courier-Gazette that the Potomac left that port at 10.30 Friday forenoon, headed for Rockland. All that afternoon and well into the night the local press representatives kept constant vigil on the waterfront and in close touch with Coast Guard stations which might know of the Potomac's whereabouts.

Eventually it was learned that she had put into Pulpit Harbor, and there during the night she rode out the moderate storm. No members of the Presidential party are understood to have gone ashore, but the craft did have one interesting visitor in the person of the internationally known financier Thomas W. Lamont, who has a Summer home at North Haven.

At 1.00 this afternoon an alarm will be rung from Box 44, calling together the special wartime deputies already notified by Sheriff C. Earle Ludwick. Lieut. J. E. Marks of the Maine State Police was on hand bright and early this morning, and the Thomaston barracks was ready for duty at whatever assignment they might be given.

The busiest place in the city today will be the Western Union telegraph office where preparations are being made to handle many thousand words. Sensing the likelihood of a "deluge" the alert manager, Bertram A. Gardner, began making preparations to handle it, and was early joined by Supt. Taylor. A force of 14 special operators will be at work.

The radio broadcasting booths were set up by employees

THE COPPER KETTLE

This is a public appreciation to all who have desired to have Private Luncheon Parties with us this month of August and whom we have been obliged to refuse. of the New England Telephone & Telegraph Company, under the direction of Earle B. Smith, sub-station installer.

THE EIGHT POINTS

The eight points on which the President and Mr. Churchill agreed to "base their hopes for a better future for the world" were:

President Franklin Delano Roosevelt, who ends his epoch-making sea voyage at Rockland today. He is expected to land at the Vinalhaven & Rockland Steamboat dock in the early afternoon.

- "1. Their countries seek no aggrandizement territory or country.
- "2. They desire to seek no territorial changes that do not accord to the freely expressed wishes of the people concerned.
- "3. They will respect the right of all peoples' choice of form of government under which they will live; and wish to see sovereignty rights and self government restored to a favorable degree.
- "4. They will endeavor with their respective existing obligations and further enjoyment of all countries, great or small, victor or vanquished and regulate trade of raw materials so needed.
- "5. They desire to bring about collaboration between all nations on the economic field with definite security for all with improved labor, economic advancement and social security.
- "6. After the final destruction of Nazi tyranny they hope to seek establishment of a peace which will afford to all nations a boundary which will afford men in all lands a new life.
- "7. Such a peace should encircle all men for traverse of the high seas and oceans without hindrance.
- "8. They believe all the nations in the world, for a realistic as well as spiritual reason, should move for abandonment of use of force."

If a press conference is arranged while the President is in Rockland he will be pressed for an elaboration of the eight points, and, of course, the vigilant newspaper men will want to be able to tell the world of the more important features of the Conference not covered in the original broadcast.

TO THE FRINGED GENTIAN

Thou blossom bright with Autumn dew,
And colored with the Heaven's own blue,
That openest when the quiet light
Succeeds the keen and frosty night,
Thou comest not when violets lean
Over wandering brooks and springs
Unseen,
Or columbines, in purple dressed,
Nod o'er the ground-bird's hidden nest.
Thou waitest late and comest alone,
When woods are bare and birds are flown,
And frosts and shortening days portend
The aged year is near his end.
Then do thy sweet and quiet eye
Look through its fringes to the sky,
Blue—blue—as if that sky let fall
A flower from its cerulean wall.
I would that thus, when I shall see
The hour of death draw near to me,
Hope, blossoming within my heart,
May look to Heaven as I depart.
—William Cullen Bryant (1794-1878)

Boat Users' Tax

Fees Under the New Revenue Bill Range From $5 To $200

The users' tax in Section 558 of the Revenue Bill of 1941 includes all boats of 16 feet or more in length and graduates the fees from $5 up to $200. Whereas the motor vehicle tax is a flat $5 per car, the tax on boats is based according to the following length classifications:

- Over-all length of 16 feet or over, but not over 28 feet, $5.
- Over 28 feet but not over 50 feet, $10.
- Over 50 feet but not over 100 feet, $40.
- Over 100 feet but not over 150 feet, $100.
- Over 150 feet but not over 200 feet, $150.
- Over-all length over 200 feet, $200.

The tax to be imposed by Section 558 would not apply to any use before Feb. 1, 1942, but includes "all boats propelled by machinery, sail, or both, measuring 16 feet or more in over-all length, owned by a citizen or resident of the United States."

A stamp, sticker or tag would be issued to the owner of the boat to be affixed to the craft according to regulations to be issued. The tax would be due each year that the law is in force.

A user's tax on boats was included in the revenue act of 1932, but 28 feet was the minimum length set and the fee started at $5.

Book Review

(By K. S. F.)

Harry Emerson Fosdick's "The Modern Use of the Bible," published by the Macmillan Company, New York.

This useful and very necessary study of our sacred word, "The Bible," has become the poignant thought of far greater number of people than is realized, and from the earliest time of his ministry, Mr. Fosdick has based his preaching and teaching upon the approach to the Bible set forth in this volume.

Here we find the affirmation of every message of the Bible, and for this day and generation. Our great loss as a nation has been our lack of study and understanding of the inspiring knowledge and guidance that comes from direct use and following of this word from God. Read and be convinced.

Mr. Fosdick tells us some of the most lively and perplexing problems that trouble Christian thought today center in the approach to the Bible. Some think this Book is a difficult enigma, and around it gather many serious questions and controversies. The word of God through the Bible must have deep study and understanding thought for clearing the mind.

In this book we find just that. And much of importance to our daily living.

Good Game Sunday

Pirates Will Take On Bangor Air Base Team At Community Park

The Pirates tackle one of the strongest opponents they have faced all year at Community Park at 3 Sunday when they meet the Bangor Air Base team. This club is made up of the pick of the baseball talent at the air base and fields and is a good ball club. This club has played the best teams in the Bangor area and held its own with them all.

Rockland, with French pitching, will field one of its best lineups of the year. Sawyer catching, Tate Cannon first base, Freddy Wink at second base, Doug Heald short stop, Les Stimpson, third base, John Karl centerfield, Rayme Ellis, left field, and Freddy LaCroix right field.

The series of games between the Fort McKinley team, on which the great LaKroy and Red Pendleton, both ex-Pirates, play is shaping up and ought to provide some good baseball.

Next Sunday the Pirates journey to Camden to try and make up for the 11 inning 5-4 defeat tacked on them by the Alley led Shells.

CLOCKS

Until we are deprived of a clock on a special mantle or wall space, we do not realize how important it is to the general run of our day. Most persons have several clocks in their homes as well as watches worn by members of the household. Time, whether important or spent in pleasures, is always of value to our contentment of mind. Sometimes we know by sense of desire for food that it's near the lunch or the dinner hour, and at other periods we are oblivious to "tell of time." We most of us were lonely without the striking of the Butler clock when it was being hospitalized, and its cheery tones again ring out the hours, giving us remembrance of the generous donor of that excellent city gift, Captain Edward H. Butler, a firm friend of his home town.

Old Timers' Club

Central Maine "Vets" Hold 13th Annual Reunion At Lakewood

Fifty members of Central Maine Power Company's Old Timers' Club met at Lakewood Thursday for their 13th annual reunion.

Harold D. Jennings of Augusta, treasurer of that Company, was elected president of the association, O. D. Mudgett of Lewiston, vice president and Ida Coffey of Bath, secretary; George D. Hegarty of Waterville and W. B. Getchell were chosen as members of the executive committee.

The association welcomed six new members who became eligible during the past year: Everett O. Prescott, Lula Maude Chapman, Meriton L. Taylor, W. David Cormier, Nettie S. Wagg and Alfred E. Drapeau.

W. B. Getchell, the retiring president, welcomed the members and recalled many interesting experiences of 30 years ago when the present company had service to one city and three towns, Waterville, Winslow, Fairfield and Oakland. Today, he told the group, 222 towns and cities are served through interconnection with the exception of one small property, Jackman.

Thirty years ago, Mr. Ketchell stated, Central Maine Power Company paid annual taxes of $3000. Today this Company pays $3000 in taxes every single day including Sundays and holidays.

In speaking of the accomplishments which these employees had seen during their term of employment he mentioned that the first 33,000 volt line in the State was built by Central Maine Power Company which extended from Gerald Station at Benton to the Edwards Mill at Augusta. He also pointed out the hydro stations that had been built during that time: Gulf Island, Wyman Station, Williams Station, etc.

His 100 year recipe for life "was work, play, keep busy and have a hobby or two."

The Old Timers' Club is an association of honor comprised of employees who have worked 30 years or more. Its objective is to fitly remember those that have worked for a 30-year period; to promote good fellowship amongst the older members and to encourage the younger employees to long term service with the company.

Statistics furnished by E. P. Noyes showed that 38 of the 50 members are on active duty, that J. Henry Henderson of Fairfield was the oldest retired member and holds the old timer's cane significance of this honor, W. B. Getchell is the oldest active member and is this company's Claims Dept. Manager at Augusta, Harvey Patterson, Skowhegan district superintendent is the youngest active member; 68 names of employees are on the association's roster, 50 of them living; the two members with the longest terms of service are H. C. Rideout of Augusta and Charles E. Gregory of Glen Cove.

After the business meeting the group enjoyed lunch at Lakewood Inn and then went down to spend the afternoon at Skowhegan Fair.

GRANGE CORNER

News items from all of the Patrons of Husbandry are welcomed here.

About 50 attended the Grange Field Day held Sunday at the Snow Bowl. Knox and Lincoln Pomonas were the visiting Pomona Granges present. Services were held out of doors with the speaker, Dr. Kendall Bass of New York and Florida, who is now summering at Owls Head. He presented a fine sermon on "Recipe for Happiness" which was followed by singing. Four charter members of Megunticook Grange were present: George E. Nash, first master; Cora M. Ordway, first lecturer; William Young, first steward and Audrey Morse, first gate-keeper. Penobscot View Grange furnished coffee at noon in the lodge room where the Granges gathered for picnic lunches. In the afternoon games were played and contests held under the direction of David Eaton of Penobscot View Grange.

The Union Fair

Supt. Vanner Gives Details As To Pulling Events—The Race Officials

Charles E. Vanner of Washington superintendent of pulling at Union Fair, has shaped up a splendid program for the coming week. Adding two new classes two years ago, that of junior sweepstakes for horses and oxen has made the program at the drawing enclosure, much more closely contested and increased the entries in all pulling classes.

Another improvement to the program at the pulling matches is the fact that there is both horse and ox pulling daily, from 10 a. m. to noon and from 1 p. m. until late afternoon all four days. Weight of the horses, and size of the oxen increase in the pulling events has been marked the past few years, and it is expected to have some beautifully matched teams in both the horses and the oxen competing.

The four day program in the drawing events will be as follows: Tuesday, a. m.—one and two year old steers; oxen 6 feet 2 inches and under 6 feet 5 inches; p. m., horses 2500 pounds and under 2800 pounds.

Wednesday, a. m.—Steer calves driven by boy under 15 years old; oxen, 6 feet 2 inches and under; oxen 6 feet 5 inches and under 6 feet 8 inches; p. m., horses, 2800 pounds and under 3100 pounds; horses, 3100 pounds and under 3400 pounds.

Thursday, A. M.—bulls 6 feet 10 inches and under; oxen 6 feet 8 inches and under 6 feet 11 inches; oxen, 6 feet 11 inches and under 7 feet 2 inches; p. m., horses 3400 pounds and over; oxen, 7 feet 2 inches and over.

Friday a. m.—Junior sweepstakes for oxen, bulls and stags, under 7 feet purse $40, divided 40%, 30%, 20% and 10%; junior sweepstakes for horses under 3200 pounds, purse $50, divided 40%, 30%, 20% and 10%; p. m., sweepstakes for horses, purse $150 divided 40%, 30%, 20% and 10% with an entrance fee of 5% of the purse; sweepstakes for oxen, purse, $50 divided 40%, 30%, 20%, and 10%, no entrance fee.

Entries in all class pulling for oxen and draft horses are limited to animals owned in Knox, Lincoln and Waldo Counties. The sweepstakes, are open to all wherever owned.

The Race Officials

Robert M. McKinley, race secretary at Union Fair, has lined up the race officials for the 1941 race meet to be held in connection with the Fair. Lawrence Haddock of Lewiston as starter of the races will make his first appearance at Union in that capacity. Capable, pleasant voiced, he is well liked in racing circles, both by the fans and the turfmen, and he has recently completed his work as starter in the Grand Circuit held this season at Old Orchard Beach.

Joe Stewart of Bangor and Robert McKinley will serve as presiding judges. The timers are to be, Howard Small of Richmond, who was one of the judges last year, and J. S. Butler of Lewiston. Clerk of the course will be Paul Harriman of Haverhill, Mass., and Union.

Howard Small will assist in the classifying of the horses.

Race entries numbering 294, are the largest ever made at Union Fair, and horses are coming early; already 50 are stabled at the grounds, and more due today. With Union Fair the only one in the State this coming week, all attention will be focused there with some of the best known and outstanding horses in New England, New York, and Eastern Canada entered in the races. Favorite drivers, who have made names for themselves in the east, will be there, among them Phalen, Avery, Kingsley, Nelson, Dennis, Forcier, Hall, Clark, Rowe, Lohnes, Cameron, Merrill, Houghton, Norwell, Chellis, Decato, Balloch of Quebec, Roulard, Clukey, Queen, Pierson, Baron, Reed, C. Smith, Patterson, Tuttle, Tweedie, Hiltz, Fitzgerald, Carini, Butler, Canton, Grant, Mason, Wathen, Cousins, Gendron. Represented will be fifty different drivers and 100 stables.

Exciting much interest in this district is the Typical Maine Couple Elimination Contest, which will be held Tuesday afternoon, at 2 o'clock. Entered are three couples, Mr. and Mrs. Nathan R. Pease of North Hope, Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Brown of North Nobleboro and Mr. and Mrs. Bradford Young of Lincolnville. The winner in the finals will represent Maine at the Eastern States Exposition in Springfield, Mass., next month. The finals in the contest will be held at Windsor Fair, the last of this month. Judges of this contest at Union Fair, Tuesday afternoon will be Earl Hayes, Director of the State Personnel Department, of Maine, and secretary of Windsor Fair, Clifton Walker of Wiscasset, president of the Knox and Lincoln Farm Bureaus, Fred Ludwig of Washington, master of Knox Pomona Grange, and Mr. and Mrs. Lester Shibles of Rockport. Entries will be received up to the time of the contest, on Tuesday.

An exhibit which will attract wide attention will be the midge racer, built by David Breed, 17, Summer resident of Camden, who has built such outfits since he was 14, selling them to professionals. The tiny smooth tires, the lightness of the eight cylinder car, and the racing equipment, including goggles, helmet, gauntlets, safety belt, will all be there, showing exclusively at Union Fair.

Appearing on the vaudeville stage afternoon and night, will be a troupe of lovely girls, in Dolan's Follies Revue. They recently appeared in the Casino in New York City, and their costumes and dance routines are brand new this season. Each of the girls is a New Englander, by peculiar co-incidence. Their numbers will be, Military Toe, The Fencers, The Rhumba, Fast Jazz number, and for specialties, the acrobatic tap, and the Fast Tap.

Still another dance number by Rosita and Perez, who feature dancing that is truly extraordinary. They have played in all the major theatres, and many of the largest night clubs and fairs in this country. Probably one of the most spectacular numbers they are to give, will be "Indian Adagio," produced after both had studied the Indian Dances extensively. Adding to the effectiveness, and brilliance of the number will be the costumes. They also will present for approval, a beautiful acrobatic waltz, and some Spanish steps.

Adding the welcome touch of comedy to the show will be the White Brothers, a "dizzy donkey" turning the laugh on the tutoring professor."

The Calbas Sisters will show their routine of Mephisto acrobatics, with gymnastics of amazing variety and feats deemed impossible.

Furnishing music for the acts and the concerts will be Norman Elvin's 10-piece dance band orchestra of Augusta.

Exhibition of Granges, Farm Bureaus, 4-H Clubs, individual farms, flowers, vegetables, home manufactures will fill the exhibition hall to overflowing. Superintendent Lester Merrill will be assisted again this year by Mrs. Ariel Leonard.

The fireworks at the evening shows last year which were so gorgeous, will be even surpassed this year, mostly of the aerial type, as they were last season.

The pulling program as planned by Supt. Charles E. Vanner of Washington will more than live up to the Union Fair reputation established over so many years. Some weighty animals will compete in all classes, and some very handsomely matched draught horses will be seen in the ring.

The day by day program.

Tuesday, pulling of one or two year old steers, pulling of oxen 6 feet 2 inches and under 6 feet 5 inches; afternoon, pulling horses, 2500 pounds and under; pulling horses 2500 pounds and under 2800 pounds; 9 heats horse racing, vaudeville; 7 p. m., band concert, vaudeville, fireworks.

Wednesday, pulling of steer calves driven by boy under 15 years old; pulling oxen under 6 feet 2 inches; pulling oxen 6 feet 5 inches and under 6 feet 8 inches; 1 p. m., pulling horses 2800 pounds and under 3100 pounds; pulling horses 3100 pounds and under 3400 pounds; horse racing, vaudeville; 7 p. m., vaudeville, band concert, fire works.

Thursday, pulling of bulls, 6 feet 10 inches and under; pulling of oxen, 6 feet 8 inches and under 6 feet 11 inches; pulling of oxen, 6 feet 11 inches and under 7 feet 2 inches; 1 p. m., pulling horses 3400 pounds and over; pulling oxen 7 feet 2 inches and over; 9 heats horse racing, vaudeville; 7 p. m., night show, vaudeville, band concerts, fire works.

Friday, a. m., Pulling in junior sweepstakes for oxen, bulls and stags under 7 feet; pulling of horses in junior sweepstakes, under 3200 pounds; p. m., pulling of both horses and oxen in the big sweepstakes.

Raymond Ladd of Portland and the Brown Bomber of Owls Head staged a rather slow fight in the semi-final that went to a draw.

Kid Hudson did a workmanlike job on Eddie Smith of Owls Head in the top prelim, knocking him down at the end of the second, Smith being saved from a kayo by the bell. In the third, Hudson put him away for the count with little trouble.

The first prelim saw Eddie Gallant of Portland fail to show up and Bert Tracy of Portland substituted for him, much to Tracy's sorrow as Al Wooster cuffed him around the ring at will and took the judges decision.

The management announced that there will be no fight next week, due to Union Fair, but on Aug. 29 they will bring together Tommy Regan and Jackie Fisher in a 10-round main bout with good supporting matches.

An Aero Rendezvous

Breath-Taking Stunts Due At the Augusta Show Next Week

In co-operation with the development of our national defense program the Maine Aero Rendezvous, Nation's third largest aviation event, will display a series of acts depicting the progress of our civilian pilots training program, dive bombing, smoke-screen acrobatics, parachuting, formation flying, auto-gyro stunting and spot landings when the 5th annual Rendezvous takes place on Friday, Saturday and Sunday—Aug. 22, 23 and 24 at the Augusta State Airport. On each day a thrilling and colorful program of 15 sensational events will be presented with some of the greatest exhibition flyers in the country being featured.

Featuring the Rendezvous this year will be Vincent "Squeek" Burnett of Richmond, Va., with his clip-wing, high powered Monocoupe doing nearly 300 miles per hour in maneuvers.

Capt. Bob St. Jock of Auburn, now a featured performer on national air shows will be brought back to Maine for an exhibition in a Waco F1 featuring square loops with the base of the loop right on the ground.

Capt. Jesse Bristow in a Boeing dive bomber will stage an exhibition of dive-bombing starting at 10,000 feet and coming right to the ground with a smoke-trail.

Earl Eckels of Washington, D. C. stunting an auto-gyro; Jack Huber of Cleveland with a 2-mile delayed opening parachute drop, also a cut-away jump using 3 parachutes; Roland Maheux, the New England Aerobatics Champion; Tommy Boyd of California in a bat-wing flight; mass jumps and formation flying will all provide plenty of thrills on the big 3-hour show.

Another Good Card

Park Street Arena Saw Plenty of Action Last Night

Mac turned out another good card at the Park Street Arena last night with the main bout between Eddie LeTourneau of Port Williams and Al Buck of Lisbon proving the highliner of the recent good main bouts that have been staged. Eddie was able to give the tough Buck a scrap that kept him on the defensive a good part of the time. Both men were in to win and the referee had to part them at the bell in two rounds, even at the last bell, they were swinging and had to be stopped. Le Tourneau slipped in a couple of low ones that looked more like mistakes than intentional fouls, the judges decided on a draw, which met with the fan's approval. For a guess Buck outweighed Eddie by at least ten pounds.

Raymond Ladd of Portland and the Brown Bomber of Owls Head staged a rather slow fight in the semi-final that went to a draw.

Kid Hudson did a workmanlike job on Eddie Smith of Owls Head in the top prelim, knocking him down at the end of the second, Smith being saved from a kayo by the bell. In the third, Hudson put him away for the count with little trouble.

"DUDE CRUISING" IS RUGGED LIFE

High Adventure and Grand Fun Feature Days Aboard Capt. Swift's Schooners

Some like Masefield, others the "Walloping Window Blind," but lurking in the breast of most Americans is a too-often-suppressed desire to "go down to the sea in ships." This explains why five old-time, two-masted "schunners" are cruising the blue waters of Maine's Penobscot Bay this summer, laden with thrilled land-lubbers.

"Dude cruising," comparable to the dude ranching of the West, started back in 1934, when C. Nelson Rogers, Boston travel agent, put the schooner Virginia in service between Boston and Maine. Two years later, Capt. Frank Swift of Camden launched his venture with five coasters. Round-the-world trips had been run previously by Capt. Irving Johnson of Gloucester in his Yankee and other long ones by Capt. Warwick Tompkins of San Francisco in his Wander Bird, but Captain Swift's ships travel for only a week at a time, first up the coast from Camden, the home port, and then down, so as to fit the two-weeks vacation exactly.

How far do they go? Well, your only power is a small outboard motor in the dinghy, used only to get in or out of harbors in an emergency, so with unfavorable winds you may never reach Bar Harbor on the north, and Boothbay on the south is always way out of reach. Mileage doesn't count, though, for every foot of Maine's storied rocky coast holds interest, and each little port you pull into for the night holds adventures of its own.

The life is a simple one. You bunk in a small two-or-more-persons cabin blocked out of the hold, with its own hatch opening on the deck. You bathe in the bay and your food is good ship's fare, including flounder, cod or haddock which you catch yourself. You lend a hand in the work of sailing the ship, for the professional crews are only the skipper, mate, and cook, with sometimes a lad along as general helper. Veterans of the coastwise or even West Indies trade of the late 1800's, the vessels are remnants of the once proud American sailing marine, rarely seen now except in our smaller ports, and they make ideal training ships for their new type of crew.

Day begins when you wake to the soft slap of water against the side and, wriggling into your bathing suit or still in your pajamas, poke your head up the hatch to see the morning mist rising from a mirror-clear sea. You hail your room-mate, rowing home with a string of flounder, dive over the side; and then comes breakfast. "First table" helps hoist sail and anchor, and soon the slap of reef-points against canvas means she's under way.

Mornings are full of unexpected chores, such as putting new hocks on the mainmast or the more prosaic one of helping the cook peel potatoes for the sake of coaxing another yarn out of him. The serious-minded make up notebooks of nautical information for future reference, and the literary read sea-going tales aloud. If the wind freshens, you scud briskly along, on the qui vive for you don't know exactly what, and if it lulls there's your chance to drop your line overboard, or dive in yourself.

Afternoons begin with siesta, while the crew manage to make out without you, and then the first thing you know it's time to drop anchor and have supper in the night's port. "Shore leave" after supper means stocking up with postcards and ice cream and perhaps a hike to a hilltop for a view of the sunset, with blueberries on the way. Maybe you visit other ships and get invited to a recital at the local yacht club, or maybe you dress up and add some "State o' Maine" steps to your repertoire of square dances. Once a week there is a lobster picnic ashore on one of the deserted islands. You buy the lobsters from a fisherman hauling traps in the course of the day's sail, and broil them on long, forked sticks over a campfire whose smoke adds an indefinable magic to the flavor.

Much of the trip's excitement comes in getting acquainted with the crews. Captain Swift skips the Lois M. Candage himself, and entices the others to old-time Maine sea captains. Capt. Manley Grant skips the Clinton-Grant, sparing of speech, self-contained, except when something humorous lights a twinkle in his deep-set eyes and quips up a corner of his lips. Capt. Converse Grant, his brother, is the Lydia Webster's master.

Capt. John Small, skipper of the Annie P. Kimball, comes from the Grants' town, Sandy Point, and so, too, does Capt. Parker J. Hall of the Mattie, the "old giant man," who is the most outstanding of them all. Huge of frame, and the hero of innumerable stories, he has become practically a legend along the coast, the yarns about him taking on the nature of folk-lore. Simple fact, however, is that he will down seven to 11 pies at a church supper and then drive the church ladies frantic by explaining politely that he really hadn't any appetite, having thoughtlessly eaten supper just previously.

Gregory Merchant of Deer Isle is the mate who plays the accordion and fiddle; he learned his old island tunes, quadrilles and jigs, from his grandfather, master fiddler of his day. Oscar Barter, also of Deer Isle is a deep-voiced mate who thunders, "Guess I'll heave a few cookies on the table, folks might like 'em."

Passenger-crews, numbering from 10 to 18 are the sort of people you'd expect to find—mostly single and in their 30's, with the ladies perhaps in the majority. They hail from the Middle West as well as New England and the lower Atlantic states. Sometimes boy meets girl. The prevailing spirit is plain lightheartedness, and among a crew of landmen out to explore the main, what could be more natural?

HAVE SOMETHING TO SHOW For Your "Rent Money"

Buy a home through a Savings Bank mortgage and your "rent money" in many cases will pay off the mortgage.

Remember, a Savings Bank Mortgage is one of the simplest. Consider these advantages:

1. Greater flexibility—each mortgage treated individually to meet your own particular situation.
2. Monthly, quarterly or semi-annually payment of interest, to suit your budget.
3. 5% on mortgages in good standing interest paid when due—No Tax Liens, and the loan amortized in 15 years.

A new seaplane float, built by N.Y.A. boys under the supervision of city carpenter, Clarence Wylie, was launched Thursday and towed to a position off the wharf of Schofield-White Park to which it will be connected by a runway also built on the same project. The first float of this type built here is in use at the docks of Island Airlines at the Public Landing where it has had much use from visiting airmen in the past year since its launching. The Civil Aeronautics Administration has, with the aid of the National Youth Administration, has placed a chain of these floats in principal harbors from Florida to Maine.

Wednesday, the city clerk's office had the largest day's receipts in the memory of the clerk, E. R. Keene, who stated that the total for the day was $62.05, of which $55.05 was fees for recording of documents. The income from bicycle licenses was not included. When clerks enter in the record books, enough mortgages, bills of sale, etc., to reach that total at 50 and 75 cents each, they are putting in a busy day.

A HOSPITAL BENEFIT

Thursday night, Aug. 28, Miss Ruth Draper, reader, and Felix Salmund, world-renowned "cellist" will give a joint recital at The Samost Hotel, and the entire proceeds will be devoted to the benefit of Knox Hospital. Further details will soon appear.

Walter Smith, age 9 son of Mr. and Mrs. Major Smith of Pearl street was rushed by car to the Maine General Hospital in Portland Thursday night where a bronchoscope was used by surgeons to remove a tooth that had been knocked out while playing and drawn into his lung. The youngster had had a bad cough for two days when his parents called a doctor who decided that there must be some foreign substance in his lung. An x-ray at the hospital proved him to be right and immediate action was taken to get him to Portland. A car driven by Joseph Vasso took the boy over the road in record time, accompanied by a child's grandfather. Last night he was reported as improving rapidly, the tooth having been removed as soon as he arrived at the hospital.

MAINE PRESS HERE FRIDAY

Publishers Will Visit Rockland For Second Time—Dr. H. C. Libby Afternoon Speaker

The Maine Press Association will hold its annual convention in Rockland Friday with the morning session in the Tower Room of Community Building and the banquet at noon at Crescent Beach Inn where the afternoon session will be held. The Association breaks precedent to compliment Rockland, coming here for the second time in two years by overwhelming vote. The reasons advanced were Rockland's central location, the accommodations at Community Building, the appeal of the sea for inland printers and the exceptionally fine dinner and courtesy extended last season at Crescent Beach Inn.

The convention this year will devote itself entirely to the problems arising from the war and civilian defense, the only exception being a discussion of the way the Rumford Times met the great tragedy of the loss of the "Don." Dr. Herbert Carlyle Libby will address the dinner session at Crescent Beach on "A Free Press and Democracy." Dr. Libby is one of Maine's ablest speakers, and any local friends wishing to hear his talk, scheduled for 1:30, will be welcome.

Following adjournment comes golf at the Knox Country Club where Rockland's Rotary team will meet the Press group. Some members have indicated a desire to visit Mott's in Thomaston and open house will be held at The Courier-Gazette office with a jam session on photography and photo engraving. John M. Richardson is association president.

Gowns On Parade

Old and New Mingle At Church Fashion Show In Warren

The Congregational Church Circle handled the fair Thursday with its usual success, topping off with a colorful fashion show, which featured gowns of other years as well as modern models. Town hall was packed. Miss Frances Spear wrote the script for the show and the opening number was the dancing of the minuet in period costume, by Mrs. Flora McKellar, Mrs. Mildred Berry, Mrs. Helen Yeo and Miss Lillian Russell.

Next on the program was the 100 years old gown, modeled by Miss Muriel French, worn years ago by Mrs. Sarah Vinal, grandmother of Mrs. Julia Watts; hoops, loaned by Mrs. Charles Copeland of South Warren, the models, Mrs. Lillian Lindsey, Mrs. Beulah Lord, and Mrs. Mildred Starrett; morning dresses, among them one owned by Mrs. Martha Anderson, another by Mrs. Mary Anderson, the models, Mrs. Olive Boggs, Miss Jean Kelso, Mrs. Mildred Berry; afternoon dresses, both the old and the modern, by Mrs. Beulah Lord, Mrs. Dorothy Overlock and Mrs. Eleanor Pipkin. Sports dresses, the croquet dress of gingham, caught up in back, worn years ago by Mrs. Jane Andrews, modeled by Mrs. Ada Spear; Lillian Russell's gym suit, worn by Mrs. Helen Yeo; others by Jean Kelso, Evelyn Smith, tennis; Joan Smith, golf; and Miss Muriel French; bathing suits, by Mrs. Mildred Starrett, Mrs. Mildred Berry, Miss Evelyn Smith, Alice Marie Griffin, Marianne Pellicane, Joseph Pellicane; for comedy, stylish stouts, as dowagers, Willis Vinal, and Sidney Vinal.

Old time gowns for street wear intermingled with today's stream line types, a dress worn to Mrs. Virginia Thompson's wedding. Modeling street dresses were Miss Mary Trone, Miss Virginia Starrett, Miss Muriel French, Mrs. Mildred Berry, Mrs. Lillian Lindsey, Mrs. Helen Yeo, Mrs. Nancy Kelso, Dale Messer, Mary Berry and Faith Norwood.

Wraps and capes were shown by Mrs. Pauline Pellicane, Mrs. Nancy Kelso, Mrs. Katherine Moody, Mrs. Muriel French, Miss Christine Starrett, Mrs. Evelyn Robinson, Miss Mary Drewett, and Miss Jean Kelso.

WILL RESURRECT MERRIWELL

Here is Gilbert Patten—better known to the sporting fraternity of bygone days—as "Burt L. Standish," author of the famous Frank Merriwell stories, most popular of the dime novel series. Mr. Patten recently arrived at his old home in Camden, and says that plans are afoot to launch a new series of Merriwell stories on the radio and screen.—Blackington photo

Jobs, And More Jobs Spoke To Deputies

Manager Trott Tells of Many Positions To Be Had For the Asking

Manager John Trott of the Maine State Employment Service at Rockland announces that he has several openings for laborers, calls come in almost daily and a list of men who can be reached quickly are desired.

Able seamen and experienced marine coal firemen are needed in Boston; application can be made through this office. At least 15 of each classification are wanted. The jobs pay a base rate of $92.50 and found, per month.

A sober bar tender with references as to his sobriety and honesty is wanted at once.

The Todd-Bath Iron Works will train a number of electric welders at their South Portland plant, free of charge, in a 10 weeks course, the only expense being their board and room. Application must be made at the Rockland office.

A first class marine machinist experienced in repairs and installation of marine motors as well as an experienced electric welder are wanted at once. Both men must be able to take charge of crews. Graduate welders from a recent course will not be considered.

Truck drivers experienced in long hauls, especially from Portland to Boston and New York, are needed.

There is the usual call for domestic help of all kinds. Some jobs paying up to $15 a week.

Machinist apprentices are wanted in Bridgeport, Conn. and Saco, Me. The rate of pay is from 50 to 72 cents per hour.

Farm hands are in demand at this time, and jobs can be had immediately.

Features at Park Theatre the coming week: Sunday and Monday Madeline Carroll and Fred MacMurray in "Virginia"; Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, Jane Withers in "A Very Young Lady," and Joan Perry and Roger Pryor in "Bullets for O'Hara"; Friday and Saturday, Ray Corrigan and John King in "Wranglers Roust."

John W. Trott, for the past four years manager of the Rockland office of the Maine State Employment Service, has resigned, effective next Monday, to enter the employ of the Todd-Bath Iron Works at South Portland. A graduate of Hebron Academy and Bowdoin College, he was an employee of the Retail Credit Association in Bangor prior to coming to Rockland.

The next quota of selectees will be sent from the local office of the Selective Board on Sept. 5. Thirteen registrants have been called for examination.

No Such Thing As Bombproof Shelter, He Tells the Sheriff's Force

Fire Chief Van E. Russell, who has recently completed the army defense course for municipal officials at Edgewood Arsenal, Md., spoke Thursday night before the wartime deputies of the Knox County Sheriff's Department, explaining the school, its functions, and passing along information that he received there, regarding the combating of chemical warfare.

Chief Russell said: "Maine is considered an invasion point by army authorities, but there is no reason for fear in this country of the incendiary bomb, due to the superiority of the American fire departments."

"There is no such thing as a bombproof shelter," stated Russell, saying that the best of them in England have been destroyed, continuing, he said that one of the most effective shelters is made of corrugated iron and covered with sand bags, while a three foot thick shelter of concrete will give way under the smallest bomb, affording little protection, if any.

Explaining the action of thermite he said that it is practically impossible to put out, efforts to extinguish usually making it burn more fiercely. The one thing that will extinguish it, a powder that has been discovered, is so expensive as to make its use prohibitive.

A school of instruction will start at the fire station in two weeks, and Chief Russell invited the deputies to attend.

Chief Russell was the second chief in Maine to attend the Edgewood defense school and has plans laid for the training of large groups of men to combat chemical warfare and bombs, should this sort of thing be our lot in the future.

Beano will be in play at G.A.R. Hall, Monday 2:15. Ada Payson will be hostess assisted by members of Ruth Mayhew Tent, members staying for the evening meeting are requested to take their own lunch. Plans will be made for the annual fair and committees named.

The tugs Wellfleet and Sheridan came into the harbor last night with tows of loaded barges, tying up at the Eastern Steamship docks.

CHURCHES

SERMONETTE

Rev. Henry F. Huse

The resignation of this beloved pastor after 14 years of valuable service, on North Haven will sadden many hearts. His touching resume of his long pastorate calls attention again to a lesson one should take to heart, namely the amount of good one man can accomplish in the service of his divine Master—if he will. North Haven with its God fearing, loveable people were made the better for his life among them.

This minister of God has given his entire lifetime to the people of Maine. A poet of ability, he saw in everything about him the handwork of God. Not only did he see it but he translated his interpretation of what he beheld in the beautiful verse which expressed his understanding of the glory of the everyday life which is common to all. For all the inward surge of his poetic nature, he never forgot that his mission among men was to seek and to save those with whom he came in contact.

North Haven's Church has gained much during the years of his ministry. My grandfather and my father would have felt kindly toward and heartily approved of Rev. Mr. Huse's long pastorate. They loved this island and I, too, have shared in the hospitality of its people, and learned at first hand their sterling worth. Wherever Rev. and Mrs. Huse go the one best wish I could give them is the expectancy that the curtain is not ringing down on their ministry of love. For the church so dear to my family and to me I say from the bottom of my heart, "God bless the Baptist Church of North Haven."

—William A. Holman

Charles Ellis will deliver the message Sunday at 10:45 at the Methodist Church, his theme, "A Tragic Substitution." Sunday School will meet at the usual hour but there will be no services Sunday or Tuesday evenings owing to the absence of the pastor.

"Soul" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon that will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, throughout the world on Aug. 17. The Golden Text is: "Bless the Lord, O my soul; and all that is within me, bless His Holy name" (Psalms 103:1). The citations from the Bible include the following passages: "My soul, wait thou only upon God; for my expectation is from him" (Psalms 62:5).

"The Incomparable Christ" will be the subject of the sermon at the First Baptist Church at 10:30 on Sunday. Rev. Thomas S. Field, of Medford, N. J., will be the guest preacher. Mrs. Lillian Joyce will be soloist for the day. The Church School, providing classes for all ages, will meet at noon. Lloyd Snowdeal will be the leader at the Christian Endeavor Inspiration Hour, beginning at 6:15. The People's evening service will begin at 7:30 with the prelude and big sing.

"Humanity's Greatest Need" will be the subject of Mr. Field's sermon. The Happy Prayer and Praise service will begin at 7:30 on Tuesday evening with Rev. Richard Gray as leader.

Rev. Walter Cook of Hebron will be guest speaker at the Littlefield Memorial Baptist Church Sunday at 10:30 and in the evening at 7:15. Special music will be provided at both services including a vocal solo by Mrs. Sidney Munro in the evening. Sunday School meets at 11:45 with classes for all ages. Young people's meeting at 6 o'clock. Mid-week praise and prayer service Tuesday night at 7:30.

At the Church of the Nazarene Sunday School begins at 10 o'clock followed by morning worship at 11. Rev. Arthur W. Gwynn will speak on the subject "On the Glory Road with Christ." Young people's meeting starts at 6:30 p. m. and the evening service at 7:30. "A Shore Work Will the Lord Make," is the theme of the evening message.

At the Congregational Church tomorrow morning Rev. Roy Welker will speak on "Divine Disregard." Summer visitors are warmly welcome at this service.

Full Gospel Mission

Evangelist Edna Goodwin of Los Angeles, who has been speaking every evening at the Rockport Full Gospel Mission (except Saturday) will tell her life story Sunday night. Her story is different from other life stories. She has had three mothers and three fathers. She has carried four names—Lockwood, Thompson, Murray and Goodwin. However, she has had but one husband. The number of names she has carried is due to having passed from one family to another as an orphan. Listeners will laugh and cry with her as she relates the bright and sad happenings in her early life.

Mr. and Mrs. Goodwin have traveled from California to Maine, from Texas to Canada, preaching the Old Time Gospel in America's largest cities and churches.

Provisions have been made at the Western Union office to care for 20 press representatives of the President's party today, additional typewriters and desks having been installed as well as three additional printers and one telegraph key for sending the news messages.

A Liberty Reunion

School Friends and Others
Join In Happy Throng
At Marshall Shore

Old friendships were renewed and childhood days recalled Sunday, at Marshall's Shore, St. Georges Lake, Liberty. It was the first annual reunion of former students of Liberty High School and of other Liberty friends.

Theodore Rowell of Thomaston was the prime mover in making the plans with Flora Sherman Beland of Prentiss as his able assistant. The whole day was a great success, nearly 100 people being present. In addition to friends from nearby towns in Waldo County, there were former Liberty folks from several other sections. "It's so good to see you again!" That seemed to be the theme of the day. One heard it from all sides. Groups formed to chat for awhile, then broke up to form again with a new pattern of faces.

After a picnic dinner on the rocks that have seen so many Liberty picnics, a short business meeting was held. Theodore Rowell was elected president, with Flora Beland as secretary, to arrange for future reunions.

Attorney Arthur Ritchie of Belfast, a former Superintendent of Schools of Liberty, spoke for a few minutes in his well-remembered manner. This was followed by a round of applause for two former Liberty teachers, Blanche Moody Johnston of Washington and Hatie Skillings Ritchie of Belfast.

Guests from in and around Liberty were: Mr. and Mrs. Marlon Knowlton, Mrs. Eva Bennett, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Berry, Minnie Abbott, Grace Cox, Ed Bridges, Arthur and Percy Boynton, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Hannon, Adelle Leeman, Meda Harriman, Ella Greely Grinnell, Mr. and Mrs. Leeman and Clyde Plummer.

Former residents were represented by: Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Rowell Thomaston; Mr. and Mrs. Bert Drummond, Searsmont; Blanche Moody Johnston, Washington; Mr. and Mrs. Frank B. Luce, Belfast; Aaron McFarland and Nettie Ramsay McFarland, Lisbon Falls; Mrs. Beatrice McFarland Lowell, Richmond, Va.; Leta Young, Springfield, Mass.; Mr. and Mrs. Lester White, North Grafton, Mass.; Mr. and Mrs. Roy Woodward, Newfields, N. H.; Ruth Knowlton Dow and Flora Knowlton Bowen, Morrill; Walter Young and Stella Leeman Young, Bangor; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Ritchie, Belfast; Mr. and Mrs. Percy Boynton, Gardiner; Charles Rhoades and Mildred Norton Rhoades, Belfast; Frank Grinnell and Hazel Young Grinnell, Springfield, Mass.; Flora Sherman Beland, Prentiss; Frank H. Cooper, Belfast; Ethel Sherman and Mrs. Elizabeth Sherman, Providence, R. I.; Fred Lowell and Gladys Young Lowell, Newport; Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Griffin and Mr. and Mrs. John Norton, Belfast.

Long Wedded Life

Family and Friends
Celebrate Appleton
Couple's Golden Event

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Butler of Appleton celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary Friday night at their home. They were married Aug. 8, 1891 in Searsmont by Rev. George Royce of Bangor, and to them were born eight children, six of whom are now living—four sons and two daughters. They also have 21 grandchildren and several great-grandchildren.

Mr. and Mrs. Butler were surprised at their residence by the arrival of relatives and friends to observe the occasion. Light refreshments were served and a variety of attractive and useful gifts were bestowed on the happy couple. They also received many greeting cards from those unable to attend, including two telegrams—one from their son, Neil, who is an officer on a steamship; and the other from their granddaughter in Massachusetts. Five of their six children were present.

Relatives present were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Butler and son Albert of Northport, George Butler, Jr., and daughters Mildred and Ruth of Union, Mr. and Mrs. Merrill Butler and children, Arthur, Charles, Chester and Ethel, Mrs. Clara Sweetland of Searsmont, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Butler of Searsmont, Herbert Butler, Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Butler and daughters Priscilla and Phyllis of Appleton, Mr. and Mrs. Elbridge Cunningham and children Pauline and Maynard of Searsmont.

Other guests were Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Salisbury, Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Townsend and granddaughter, Pearl Bacheider, Mrs. Mildred Hemmenway and sons, Gardner and Drummond, Mr. and Mrs. John Levenseller, Mrs. Arthur Sweetland, George Skinner, Mrs. Harriet Knights, Lyndy and Robert Warner of Searsmont, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Meserve, Mr. and Mrs. Alton Pease, Mrs. Angie Fish, Mr. and Mrs. Ormand Keene, grandson Edward Meeri, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Cullinan of Appleton and Miss Isabelle Lancaster of Brownville.

BROAD COVE
Miss Florence Goodwily and mother of Massachusetts are passing the month with Mrs. Carrie Wallace.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Emery of Rockland and Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Emery and family of North Carolina were callers Wednesday at Mr. and Mrs. Carl Hilton's.

Epworth League met Tuesday with Rev. and Mrs. Donald Wells. These meetings have been held every week and have steadily grown in attendance. Membership combines the young people of the Dutch Neck and Bremen Churches.

Mr. and Mrs. Irving Hansell and son of Camden and Miss Priscilla LaCombe of Lincolnville were recent visitors at Mr. and Mrs. George LaCombe's.

The entertainment and sale held Wednesday at the Bremen town hall for the benefit of the Ladies Aid, was well attended and netted a substantial sum.

Fire of undetermined origin Monday night destroyed the general store owned by Willis Hilton. Although Mr. Hilton had left the building only a short time before the fire was discovered, the structure was shortly in flames making it impossible to save the contents. The loss is estimated at $2,000. There was a small insurance. The Waldoboro and Damariscotta fire departments were called but due to lack of water were unable to check the blaze.

FRIENDSHIP
The Methodist Vacation Bible School is enjoying a picnic today with Miss Smith and Miss Rachel Stetson in charge of the children and Rev. H. W. Van Deman furnishing transportation.

Mrs. Lucy Rider was guest Sunday of Mrs. Bedford Miller. Mrs. Adrienne Pelletier of Lewiston was also a recent visitor.

Mr. and Mrs. Leland Simmons of Forest Lake are occupying the William Wincenpaw house.

Mrs. Lottie Pitcher, Mrs. Sybil Wincenpaw of South Waldoboro and Mrs. Gertrude Oliver dined Sunday at Mrs. E. H. Lawry's. Mrs. Oliver goes today to Lewiston where she will join Past Grand Chief Lila Haskell and together they will go to Farmington to attend the school of instruction for the deputies and grand officers of the Pythian order. They will then proceed to Naples where officials will enjoy a picnic.

Corp. Hadley Miller of Portland passed last week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bedford Miller. He has recently been promoted from private to corporal.

The Methodist Church sponsored a successful lawn party Wednesday.

Lobster Fishermen Fire Questions

Maine lobster fishermen are becoming more and more interested in the propagation program of the Department of Sea and Shore Fisheries and put on a real quiz program when warden's fourth-stagers from the Boothbay Harbor rearing station to their locality. In the above photo fishermen Ernest Rich of West Tremont throws a barrage of questions at Commissioner Greenleaf at McKinley. Forty thousand of the young lobsters were brought by truck and then taken to the lobster beds for releasing. More than one million of these inch long crustaceans have been released this season. Left to right: Fred Davis, West Tremont; Chester Lewis, McKinley; Ernest Rich; Maynard Torrey, Bernard; Warden Supervisor William T. Thurston, McKinley; and Commissioner Greenleaf. NOTABLES AT MONHEGAN

Twenty Artists and Writers Spending Month of August There

Monhegan Island has 20 New York writers and artists passing a vacation there the entire month of August. This has long been a favorite Summer rendezvous for painters and literary folk. Many a fine novel or short story has been written at Monhegan, while wonderfully executed canvasses have graced the walls of studios and art exhibitions.

It was 327 years ago last August that Capt. John Smith anchored in the narrow strait between Monhegan and Manana Islands which for lack of a better name is called a harbor. It was here that the colonists of the Popham expedition landed on Aug. 29, 1607, and it was here that the first English sermon ever preached in America is said to have been delivered by the chaplain of the colony, Richard Seymour.

"Although other explorers preceded Smith, his anchoring in the harbor and the first map of New England which he prepared as a result of this visit to America, marked the coming of the traders and the fishermen. From his visit, too, dates the continuous occupation of Monhegan and the beginning of its real history.

Monhegan is about 2 1/2 miles long and a mile wide. There is a light-house which stands 168 1/2 feet above sea level. Across on rocky Manana is a powerful Daboll gun trumpet station. The only business of the natives is fishing and by their own request they have a special law governing the taking of lobsters. This season begins Dec. 1 and continues until June 1. After that every trap comes up. During the period they catch enough fine big crustaceans to supply their local market all Summer.

Monheganites are again urging the government to establish a breakwater across the southern end of the harbor to Manana Island which would give an adequately protected harbor which might be in- valuable they point out, in case of an invasion of these shores by any foreign power. It could be built for $60,000.

There has never been a murder on Monhegan. There is no jail and serious brawls are unknown. All the year there is a church, school, postoffice and general store. There are five Summer hotels and perhaps 40 Summer cottages.

MAINE IN WASHINGTON

(From the Office of Senator Ralph O. Brewster)

It is interesting to note that more and more Washington observers believe that America is in no immediate danger of involvement in the war. Yet would not say that their number is yet a majority but their numbers constantly increase. This is based on the rather obvious inference that Hitler does not want us now involved in the war in the Atlantic and that Japan has no desire to repeat the unfortunate role of Italy in the Mediterranean by trying to pull German chestnuts out of the fire in the Far East.

Japan is ready to do almost anything Germany wants "short of war." Germany was able to bolster up the tottering Italian regime overland but no such help can go to the Japanese now bogged in China and faced with perfectly impossible sea communications to Indo-China if any trouble should come with Britain or the United States. It is easy to overlook that the distance from Japan to Indo-China by sea is more than 2,000 miles.

Preparedness

The Senate spent this last week on the Service Extension measure. The original Committee proposal reported to the Senate provided for indefinite extension of the service. Both Maine Senators voted for the proposals to limit the further period of service to six months, then 12 months, then for the 18 months' amendment which was finally adopted and both Senators then voted for the bill as finally passed an 18 months' extension and an increase of pay for enlisted men of $10 a month after 12 months of service.

Senator White pointed out the seeming necessity of further training because of the confusion which had almost necessarily prevailed in putting more than one million men under arms within 12 months and the difficulty in getting modern material for training purposes and also the need of some reasonable time to turn around in providing garrisons for our widely flung outposts. No suggestion was made in the Senate to remove the existing limitation restricting the service of both the National Guard and Selectees to the Western Hemisphere and our insular possessions.

Senator Brewster issued the following statement: "I am voting to extend the training period as a means of keeping us out of war. Peace today belongs to the strong. When a strong man armed keepeth his house, his goods are in peace."

Maine National Guard

Maine National Guard troops moved this last week from Camp Blanding in Florida to Dry Prong, Louisiana, where they are in camp on a typical Maine hillside with giant pines but lacking the lakes and the streams of Maine. The men travel 15 miles twice a week for a shower bath from a stream where an impromptu pump from a rather muddy stream wets them down.

The Guard spends something over a month here in maneuvers where more than half a million men will ultimately be deployed and then moves back to Blanding in Florida and on to North Carolina where further maneuvers will be carried out in November. The men are hardening into excellent condition and have made most gratifying progress in their preliminary training. They should be in excellent condition for any task that may be assigned them in the Western Hemisphere to which they are limited by law and this law is not likely to be changed.

Price Control and Rationing

Maine may be profoundly grateful that we are moving constantly nearer to Labor Day without too burdensome restrictions on the sale of gasoline. Gasoline is so much the life blood of modern recreation that Maine is perhaps more concerned in its unrestricted distribution during the Summer months than any other state.

At Labor Day the problem will be entirely different and it seems obvious that Mr. Tokes is doing everything in his power to defer the evil day when it will be necessary to cut down. Meanwhile the House Committee on Banking and Currency goes forward with hearings on price control legislation which it seems evident will be required if runaway inflation is to be avoided. Payrolls in America and in Maine will increase by at least 50 percent this next year. Meanwhile production of defense items will decrease by at least 50 percent with increasingly rigid rationing and price controls.

About the only thing that will not be rationed or restricted as to price are the recreational delights of the State of Maine. Accordingly, it is safe to predict in the language of Pearson and Allen that next Summer, 1942, will be the biggest recreational season Maine has ever known. It will furnish one of the few outlets for the overflowing pockets of Americans everywhere with luxury items of all other descriptions growing constantly scarcer as the year wears on.

Conservation of Gasoline

Maine citizens may prudently conserve gasoline to the utmost for the 10 months following Labor Day in order to be able to supply their guests next Summer assuming some arrangement may be worked out by which our allocations can be considered on an annual basis so that whatever surplus allocation we store up this Winter may be used next Summer when it will mean so much to us and to our guests.

Fuel Problems

Meanwhile as the Farmers' Almanac says it will be well to bear in mind that Winter will soon be coming and that plans should be made for fuel supplies of one kind or another since difficulty is almost certain to develop with both coal and oil. For the next few years a good wood pile will be the sure sign of a happy home.

Congressional Recess

Maine members of the Senate and House may be able to be in Maine for the next two weeks to catch up with their home work while the House Committee is considering price control legislation and the Senate Finance Committee is conducting hearings on the new tax bill. The House is expected to finish action on the Service Extension legislation and this will release the Maine members of the House.

War Profiteers

War profiteering does not seem likely to be as prevalent as 20 years ago. A study of 40 corporations under the new tax bill as adopted by the House and now being considered by the Senate Finance Committee showed expected increases in gross sales of two billion and a half dollars over last year with increased profits of five hundred million dollars and increased taxes of $550,000,000 or a loss of $50,000,000 on an increased business of two billion and a half.

Before the Senate Committee Morgenthau proposed adding another billion dollars to the tax bill while Senator George, the Chairman, indicated perhaps $5,000,000, would be as much as it would be prudent now to add. This explains the restrained optimism of the average business man.

Many Toothaches

Triceratops dinosaurs had more than 500 teeth and suffered from toothaches.

Submarine Under Water

A submarine has remained under water as long as 96 hours.

Trees Producing Wood

There are 1,177 varieties of trees which produce wood.

STOP HIM

Mr. Congressman . . .

THIS IS FROM THE FOLKS BACK HOME

Do you believe the President when he tells you that the Nazi machine is clanking more rapidly than ever toward world domination and that war is marching toward us with giant strides from east and west? Or do you believe Senator Wheeler and the few who think that Hitler bears us no malice? Do you believe that the Chief of Staff of the United States Army knows what he is talking about? Or do you believe that a few of your wilful colleagues know better?

Within a few weeks our newly organized Army will begin to melt away unless you act.

Unless you act, our Army will be hamstrung. We must not restrict its actions to this hemisphere. Do you think Joe Louis could win a fight if he were not allowed to cross the middle of the ring? Days wasted now will have to be paid for in years of protracted bloodshed and destruction.

HEAVY EQUIPMENT AT AIRPORT

Two of the heavy pieces of equipment being used in the construction of the new airport at Ash Point. Very few trucks are being used to move dirt, instead the huge caterpillar tread mevers shown above are used, being towed by a diesel tractor. Each steel wagon, as they are called by the workmen, will take 16 yards of dirt and rock to a load. They are loaded by a power shovel with a two-yard bucket. The tractors haul two wagons at a time and dump them wherever fill is needed, the dumping of the load being controlled from the tractor driver's seat. The bottom picture shows one of the steel wagons being dumped on the northeast southwest runway.

The 1912 Reunion

Met At Lobster Pot and Enjoyed Alton Hall
Blackington's Talk

A reunion of the class of 1912 R.H.S. was held Monday at the Lobster Pot, Friendship, with 18 members and nine guests present. Letters were received from Mrs. Addie Prescott Mitchell of Union, William S. Healey of California, and telegram from Mrs. Frances Davis Merrill of Massachusetts and Mrs. Edna Nelson Mann of Bangor. Alton Hall Blackington told of his experiences while on assignment. A spelling bee conducted by Bertha Borgerson never ended because of lack of time.

At the business meeting these officers were re-elected: President, Lottie Jones; vice president, Francis Havenner; secretary, Mrs. Kathryn St. Clair and treasurer, Mrs. Nellie Cobb Peterson.

Other class members who attended were Ansel Saunders, Mrs. Therese Manning Chase, Mrs. Blanche Magee Calderwood, Miss Marguerite Gould, Mrs. Mary Ingersoll Dinsmore, Mrs. Emma Covel Harvey, Mrs. Geneva Rose Huke, Miss Helen Sleeper, Mrs. Flora Jackson Baum, Mrs. Doris Small Pierson, Miss Anna Flynn, and Harold Spear.

Guests were Mrs. Blackington, Mrs. Saunders, Harry Chase, George St. Clair, Mrs. Havenner, Alton Borgerson, Mrs. Sabra Jones and Ralph Calderwood.

On Aug. 25 Mrs. Nellie Cobb Peterson has invited the class for a picnic supper at her cottage.

For Camden Y.M.C.A.

A Brilliant Concert To Be Given At The Opera
House Aug. 25

Another brilliant musical event in the Summer calendar takes place at Camden Opera House Monday, Aug. 25, at 8:30, when a concert in benefit of the Camden Y.M.C.A. will be presented. In line with the usual generosity shown by visiting artists for such worthy causes, the performers all of whom enjoy renown, are giving their services.

Mme. Lea Luboshutz, internationally known violinist, will play one movement of a sonata with Vladimir Sokoloff at the piano, and two solo numbers. Mr. Sokoloff collaborating. One number is by the distinguished composer and conductor, Hermann Hans Wetzler, who is spending the Summer in Rockport.

Carlos and Marjorie Call Salzedo will participate in the program and in an interesting manner. One number will have Mrs. Salzedo at the harp and Marian Held, playing the violin. Another number will be for harp and piano, Mr. Salzedo presiding at the piano. Mr. Salzedo though he seldom appears in the role, is an accomplished pianist as well as a harp virtuoso.

Another feature of this program will be the appearance of Virginia Lewis, negro soprano, who possesses a voice of surprising volume and beautiful tonal quality. Miss Lewis has been studying with Mme. Elisabeth Schumann in Rockport this Summer, and recently sang at a Robin Hood Dell concert in Philadelphia with the Philadelphia Orchestra.

A special welcome will be extended to Mr. and Mrs. Vladimir Sokoloff as duo pianists, as Mrs. Sokoloff was prevented by illness from appearing at a previous concert this Summer. Known as Eleanor Blum and Vladimir Sokoloff, this pair wins musical friends wherever they appear, their playing having a dash and brilliance as well as sound musicianship.

All seats are reserved and prices are within the reach of all. Tickets will be on sale at the Selectmen's Office in Camden, beginning next Monday.

afternoon at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Fannie Ott, Pascal avenue, following a long period of ill health, and being confined to the bed the past seven weeks. Mr. Cox was the oldest man in town and was holder of the Boston Post gold-headed cane. "He was a life-long resident of the town and for more than 50 years was employed in the lime industry.

Surviving relatives are two daughters, Mrs. Ott and Mrs. Addie Wentworth, two grandchildren, Mrs. Theresa Dow and Aubrey Wentworth, and a great-grandchild, Patricia Wentworth, all of Rockport.

Funeral services will be held Sunday at 1:30 at the home, Rev. F. Ernest Smith of the Methodist Church officiating. Interment will be in the family lot in Amsbury Cemetery.

SESQUICENTENNIAL IS BOOMING

ting on some fancy old-fashioned dancing, it is announced by the Old Time Dance Committee, Otis Dean, War. Joseph Eaton (Maynard Ingraham) was elected treasurer.

Ben Ames Williams, famous novelist, who will be on the program Monday at 3.15 with historical data

Elmer Joyce, Jane Forte, and Charles Dailey, John Felton, Doris Heald

Old-fashioned costumes are not required, but everyone who can do so will go dressed in appropriate costume for an old-fashioned barn dance, and a prize will be given for the best costume.

Otis Dean and Billy Dean are combining their orchestras for the evening's dance music, and there will be fiddles and banjos as well as the regular dance orchestra instruments.

Rockport's part in the celebration opened at 10:15 Friday morning when post riders arrived at the location of the first Post Office in Rockport, the Frank Flanders home on Main street, with special mail from Camden and left shortly afterward on the return trip with special mail from Rockport, a special envelope having been issued for the occasion.

At 2 o'clock the big event of the day began, a town meeting held on the waterfront, which was a replica of the first town meeting held at the Peter Ott Tavern on Richards Hill, and called according to the original warrant of that date, March 12, 1791.

Before taking up the warrant the history of the Town of Rockport was read by Earle Achorn. The meeting was then called to order by Oliver Larkin, Justice of the Peace (Frank H. Ingraham), William Gregory (George S. Cunningham) was elected as moderator, without opposition, and John Harkness (W. F. Dillingham) was nominated as Town Clerk, which raised a discussion as to whether or not he could read and write.

He was duly elected after convincing the meeting that he could do so. He was also elected 1st Selectman, William Gregory (Geo. S. Cunningham) 2d Selectman and William McGlathery (Alton Crone) 3d Selectman. These three were promptly elected after proving that they were honorably discharged from the Revolutionary Army. Nathaniel Palmer (William A. Paul) was elected Collector after proving to the entire satisfaction of the voters that he was a veteran of all wars. Revolutionary, Civil, Spanish and first World War. Joseph Eaton (Maynard Ingraham) was elected treasurer.

Barak Bucklin (Arthur K. Walker) and Thomas Mace (Earle Achorn) were elected as tythingmen, their nomination bringing forth heated discussion as to whether or not they were regular church attendants.

In regard to covering the raising of money for the support of a school or the present year, it was suggested from the floor that this Article be passed over and that we have no schools as the people in town already knew too much, but this suggestion was overruled and it was suggested to combine Article 13 with Article 14, "To see if the town will build a pound." Under these articles 17 pounds was raised to be used for building a schoolhouse for the children and a pound for the hogs. This brought up the question as to how the sum should be divided, the first suggestion being that two-thirds should go to the pound and one-third to the schoolhouse, there being more hogs than children in town. It was finally decided to give two-thirds to the children and one-third for the hogs, the children being more important and this went through with a unanimous vote.

Group singing with Mrs. Amy Miller, at the melody was enjoyed preceding and following the meeting.

Attics were thoroughly combed for garments of by gone days, and a good part of the audience appeared in interesting ancient costumes.

At 4 o'clock the bridal party, depicting the wedding of Nathaniel Hosmer and Mary Wheeler, left the waterfront for Melvin Heights and the Snow Bowl, the bride and groom riding in an ancient buggy and the attendants in an old fashioned stage coach.

In honor of the anniversary a number of the business places in town are showing window displays of old time portraits, pictures of various types, old books and other articles of interest.

SERVICE AT ROCKVILLE
A 150th anniversary Sunday service is to be held at the Rockville

Baptist Church; 150 years ago Rockville was a part of Camden and known as Camden. The church in this village was the first organized church of Camden and at 3 o'clock a Sunday preaching service will be held here. Earl Achorn will conduct the service in period dress and the entire service will be carried out as in 1791 as far as possible except the length of the sermon which at that time continued for three hours. It is hoped that all who can will attend in old fashioned costume.

CAMDEN

This is the place of perfect beauty even as a face that time can never mar nor change. Nor absence render strange. As I sit you by these purple brows, Admired by wandering brows And now the blue melts into living green. With violet lights between— Hills not too high nor keen To be beloved. Oh elsewhere I have seen Cold, barren crags on high. Snow-fringed, and alien peaks that prick the sky. Remote and isolate, but round the seas Nothing so dear as these. And now the shore draws nigh. Behind us fades away the foamy track Back to a struggling world wherein the tide goes ebbing, ebbing down the strand. The tide goes ebbing, ebbing down the strand. To point the way to the land. ## "Gram" Watts Happy

Scores of Friends Remembered Aged Woman On Her Recent Birthday

Emily J. Watts, 92, but "up and coming"

On Wednesday, Aug. 6, the birthday of Mrs. Emily J. Watts, affectionately known as "Gram" to her many friends was observed. The day before, cards and presents began to arrive and by Wednesday night the display of birthday cards, candy, cakes, flowers, fruits and other gifts would have made a debutante "green with envy."

All day long callers were arriving to wish her "many happy returns of the day." One caller snapped a picture of "Gram" and wanted to take a four-generation picture, as the granddaughter Mrs. Marion Colby, and great-granddaughter Helen Colby were present, but "Gram's" son Charles is camera shy and refused to pose.

"Gram" has led a life of adventure. Married at 22 to Capt. Edward Watts of St. George, she followed the sea with her husband for 35 years and visited nearly every country in the world.

Capt. Watts was one of the best known mariners of his day. Sailing for the Searows of Bath, he commanded such ships as the Susquehanna, the Shenandoah, Roanoke and Rappahannock. These were five-masted vessels of about 2100 tons. "Gram" sailed around both the Cape of Good Hope and Cape Horn in them more times than she can remember.

She has experienced shipwreck, violent storms at sea and the inconveniences of life on shipboard. She also has many interesting and pleasant memories to look back on such as the time she visited the cottage of Highland Mary and used her spinning wheel, and the time the lace makers of Ceylon came aboard the ship and made for her yards and yards of beautiful lace which she still has.

In her numerous voyages "Gram" brought home many curious and rare mementos. Some she still keeps but many have been given to friends and relatives as "Gram" likes to share her pleasures with others.

At 92 she retains a youthful attitude toward life and is much broader minded than many half her age. She enjoys company, especially the young people of the family, and enjoys their jokes as much as they do.

She makes her home with her son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Watts and their son "Bud," who take great pleasure in making life happy for her.

Flower Show Awards

Thomaston Has a Fine Showing of Lovely and Varied Blooms

The Thomaston Garden Club Flower Show held Tuesday afternoon and evening at the Baptist Church was most successful. The church itself was lovely with seemingly every variety of flower represented. One unfortunate incident marred an otherwise enjoyable day, this being a fall suffered by the vice president of the club, Mrs. Agnes Boynton who sustained a broken arm and is consequently confined to Knox Hospital. Mrs. Boynton did, however, beautifully decorate the church entrance and manage to get her entries in the show for the judging.

Mrs. Albert Jameson, president of the Rockland Garden Club, Mrs. Carl Sonntag and Miss Caroline Jameson, of Rockland were the judges and the results were: Arrangements to supplement a picture, first, Mrs. Naomi Elliot, second, Mrs. Agnes Boynton, third, Miss Rita C. Smith; Class Two, patriotic arrangements, first and second, Mrs. Mary Overlock, third, Miss Margaret Ruggles, honorable mention, Mrs. Ava Whitney; Class Three, miniatures, first, Mrs. Ethel McDonald, second, Mrs. Naomi Elliot, third, Mrs. Lilla Elliot, honorable mention, Miss Hilda George; bouquets in uniform white containers, shown against black, first Mrs. Naomi Elliot, second, Mrs. Ava Whitney, third, Mrs. Gould; Class Five, arrangements with silver background, first, Mrs. Margaret Creighton, second Miss Smith, third Mrs. May McEvoy.

Novelty centerpieces, first Mrs. Lilla Elliot, second, Mrs. Margaret Demmons; arrangements with a fan motif, first Mrs. Boynton, second, Mrs. Whitney, third Mrs. Keene; windings and weeds, first Mrs. Kennedy Crane, Rockland, second Mrs. Naomi Elliot, third Mrs. Margaret Demmons; interpreting a poetical quotation, first Mrs. Lavinia Elliot, second Miss Alice George, third Mrs. Eliza Carleton.

In containers not intended for vases, first, Mrs. Boynton (comb cases), second Mrs. May Cottam, (wooden shoe), third Mrs. Ethel McDonald, (tiny shell), honorable mention, Mrs. Naomi Elliot; reproducing a given picture, first, Mrs. Margaret Stone, second Mrs. Whitney, third Mrs. Demmons; vegetable or fruit arrangements, (Men), first, Mr. White, second, Mr. Shrey, third, R. O. Elliot; Class Thirteen, unusual potted plants, first, Mrs. Mayo, (gloxinia), second, Mrs. Bowe, (California ivy), third Mrs. Minnie Wilson, (desert rose).

Miscellaneous arrangements in any container, first Mrs. Lavinia Elliot (globe thistle), second Mrs. Lilla Elliot, (rose foliage) third, Mrs. Gould (salpiglossis in peacock); specimen blooms, Roses, first Mrs. Lilla Smalley (crimson glory) Dahlias, first, Mrs. Eunice Shorey (Emma Slocum), Gladioli, first Mrs. Elsie Gasper, (yellow), second Miss Margaret Ruggles, (Maid of Orleans, white), third, Mrs. Leslie Young, (Hedda Hopper, pink). D. Annual specimens, first Cosmos, George Mero, second, aster, Mrs. Miller and white phlox, Miss Smith, third, Salpiglossis, Miss Smith, special mention, Otis Robinson, Cushing.

Mrs. Hattie Creighton's display of shell objects from Florida was most interesting, though not in any competitive class. Mrs. Creighton was in charge of the tea table and was assisted by various members of the club.

Robinson Reunion

The Robinson reunion was held last Sunday at the home of Mrs. Levander Newbert in Waldoboro. There were 40 present. The tables were loaded with good things to eat including "mother's baked beans" to which all did justice. Clifford Robinson and family of Warren, Josiah and Dyson Jameson of Waldoboro and Oren Robinson, Jr., of Portland were not able to be present.

Those in attendance were: Mr. and Mrs. Lester Post, daughter Virginia, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Post, Mr. and Mrs. Ansel Wooster, sons Carleton, Milton and Ervin of Rockland, Mr. and Mrs. Maynard Robinson and children Kathleen, Vivian, Leona, Maynard, Jr., and Richard, Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Robinson, son Edmund, Mr. and Mrs. George Denah of Portland, Mrs. Josiah Jameson, daughters Vera and Alice, Mr. and Mrs. Merline Engley and son Donald, Charles, Herbert, Carleton, Ranquest, Mr. and Mrs. Levi Robinson and daughters Joan and Jane, Mr. and Mrs. Levander Newbert, daughter Phyllis of Waldoboro. Two members have been added to the family since last year—Mrs. Kenneth Post and little John Robinson who is 10 weeks old.

Seafarers' Guides

A Story of New England Lighthouses As Told By Fred C. Green of Boston

Any reference to Wiscasset and the Sheepscot River calls to mind the graniose scheme of so many years ago to make Wiscasset the greatest seaport in America by running the Narrow Gauge Railroad from that town to Quebec and bringing by rail the wealth of the Canadian Provinces to be shipped from Wiscasset, with the return cargoes going northward over the three-foot right-of-way.

About everybody in that area bought stock in the venture; the railroad was mapped out and rails laid until the bank of the Kennebec was reached. Piers were constructed for a bridge across that mighty stream—and then interests friendly to existing, standard-gauge railroads blocked legislative permission for the building of the bridge. So instead of pushing New York, Boston and other ports into the background, Wiscasset remained just Wiscasset.

First of the lights listed under the Kennebec River area is that on Pond Island, at the westerly side of the mouth of the river. The description of the station includes a white tower and dwelling connected by a workroom; a fog bell hung from a framework, 200 feet southerly, and a red brick oil house 161 feet northwesterly from the light tower. The bell is machine operated.

First lighted in 1821, and rebuilt in 1855, the tower has sufficient height to bring the center of the lantern 52 feet above high-water mark, so that the fixed white light can be seen for 12½ miles.

The fixed red lens lantern at Fort Popham is next on the list. Located on the point of rock jutting into the Kennebec from the westerly bank of the river, its distinguishing mark is a white, pyramidal bell tower, with the upper part enclosed, connected with the shore by a white, wooden bridge 70 feet long and carrying a 1000-pound bell that is operated by machinery. This station was established in 1869 and was rebuilt four years later.

Next we come to Perkins Island light, which stands at the westerly side of the island at the easterly side of the river. The octagonal, pyramidal shingled tower is painted white, with black lantern. There is a white boat house 25 feet northerly, a white dwelling 44 feet south-southeasterly, a white barn 65 feet northeasterly and a white bell tower 236 feet south of the light tower. The fog bell is struck by machinery. First lighted in 1888 and never rebuilt, the light can be seen 8½ miles from the lantern height of 41 feet. It is fixed red with one white sector showing between north-northeast, ¾ east and northeast, ¾ east, and another that shows between south, ¾ west and south by west, ¾ west.

Squirrel Point light is on the westerly side of the most southwesterly part of Arrowsic Island. The description of the tower is identical with that at Perkins Island and it was opened in the same year as that beacon. A

Greenway's Sorrow

Brooklyn Pastor, Known In Knox County, Grieved At Daughter's Stand

A long-awaited courtroom reunion with his 11-year-old daughter turned into a dramatic failure for the Rev. Cornelius Greenway, pastor of All Souls Universalist Church in Brooklyn.

Sobbing bitterly, the preacher walked out of the courtroom, after his daughter, Vera, defied Supreme Court Justice Benjamin P. Schreiber to compel her ever to see her father again.

"I'm happy with mother and I want to stay with her," the girl cried.

The ill-fated reunion was brought about by Greenway's habeas corpus writ, in which he accused his former wife, Julia Greenway, of the Hotel Kimbrey of violating a Florida court decree permitting him to see the child for 26 hours every weekend. Mrs. Greenway, he declared, has kept Vera from him since May 4.

With the parents and their attorneys seated in his chambers, Justice Schreiber took Vera into an ante-room for a three-minute conference. He returned with an announcement that the child told him she preferred spending all her time with her mother.

"Something must be done to bring this child and her father together," said the jurist.

Greenway, weeping, said he would spare no effort to effect a reconciliation with Vera. He pointed out that she was his only living relative, that he turns over half his income for her support, and declared he has waited for hours outside her school "just for a single glimpse of her."

"Before you leave my chambers, I want you to have a talk with your daughter," the jurist told the pastor.

"I won't talk with you," retorted Vera, jumping up and facing her father. "I don't ever want to talk to you or see you!"

Schreiber, indignant at Vera's insistence, adjourned the hearing until next Wednesday, after warning Mrs. Greenway, "If you can't arrange for this child to see her father, I'll do it."—From a Brooklyn newspaper.

white boat house stands 200 feet north of the tower. The white dwelling is 114 feet and the white barn 153 feet northeasterly, with an oil house of red brick 138 feet southeasterly of the light. A mechanical bell is provided. Lantern height is 25 feet and visibility 8½ miles. The beacon is fixed red with a fixed white sector between north-northwest and north by west, ¾ west.

Was Aboard 'Athenia'

Rotarians Hear Dramatic Story of Survivor of War's First Tragedy

A first-hand account from a survivor of the torpedoed "Athenia" brought war's grim traces a shade nearer home yesterday when Rotarians, at their weekly luncheon, heard the experiences of Miss Jane Forte who was a passenger on that British ship which met its doom 24 hours out from port, bound for this country.

Miss Forte, a resident of Newton Highlands, Mass., has been engaged in dancing instruction in Missouri but is located for the Summer at Whitehall Inn, Camden. She is the daughter of a member of the Boston Rotary Club.

Although the ship on which she booked passage from England, was under rigid restrictions as to lights and a complete blackout ordered, it was supposed, according to the speaker, that one of the passengers violated the orders and gave the location of the craft to a lurking submarine. Miss Forte was in her stateroom dressing for dinner when she suddenly found herself in a mass of debris and fallen timbers dumped into what might have been the baggage compartment below decks.

Dimly discerning a ladder, she groped her way toward this means of egress. Her companion, meanwhile was suffering so severely from the shock that she was unable to arouse her to conscious action, so made her way to the upper deck, seeking assistance. Here she was plunged into a surge of milling, terrified passengers pulling and straining in every direction; and, caught in the panicked hordes, it became a physical impossibility to again contact her friend.

All passengers had been given a boat drill and assigned to emergency positions, so pushing her way doggedly on, Miss Forte finally succeeded in reaching her allotted station, only to meet a dismaying void—her life boat blown away from their davits. Eventually, however, she was lowered into another boat as one of the last to leave the ship. During this time she saw one boat capsized from overcrowding in the heavy seas, and every-where frightened, pitiful human flotsam.

Dawn in an open boat, and then at 3 a. m. the joyous sight of two craft approaching from East and West. One was a Norwegian battleship and the other, the Southern Cross. Because of its greater size, most of the life boats' occupants attempted boarding the battleship, but the New England girls crew approached the Southern Cross and were lifted aboard by a rope attached under the armpits.

Steaming to the rescue from 190 miles distance, the American S. S. City of Flint presently arrived on the scene and transfer of the United States citizens was made to this ship. "What a grand and glorious feeling to be an American," sensed Miss Forte, as she set face again toward her Yankee home and safety.

"City of Flint" was in command of Captain Gainard of Boston, a pleasant coincidence as Miss Forte was from the same territory. So overburdened was the "Flint" with its extra passengers, that meals were served in eight shifts, but every able "guest" gladly went into harness, washed dishes, nursed the injured and worked with a will in good spirits and fellowship.

There were tears and anguish aboard, to be sure, and one we survivor died from wounds; but there were brave days, too, with even song and dance to lift morale and ease the shattered nerves. In these measures Miss Forte was in her perfect element, giving in one instance a Hula dance dressed in spliced rope skirt to the tune of canvas-covered pails as tom-toms. No, she had never done a Hula before, admitted the dancer, but these pathetic, quavering victims needed a smile at any cost, and in her professional capacity she proceeded to supply it, with gallantry and with success.

After two weeks the "Flint" docked at Halifax. Visitors were: J. Orton Buck of Portland, C. W. Babb, Sr. of Camden, Otto Svenson of Troy, N. Y., Frank E. Poland of Boston, Casper H. Martin of Randolph-Holbrook, Mass., Madison A. Hart of Danville, Conn., Elmer C. Elsea of New Rochelle, N. Y., Charles A. Holden of Hanover, N. H., Pearl Willey of Camden, Alonzo P. Spear of Camden, Bill Cullen of Lewiston, Harry Jackson of Lebanon, N. H., George W. Haag of North Wales, Penn., and Norton McKean of Albany, N. Y.

Guests were: James Moran, Charles T. Beverage, F. K. Gifford, Ralph M. Cowan, Elmer E. Joyce.

It Was 1901 Night

Class of Forty Years Ago Made Merry At Beach Inn

The class of 1901 R.H.S., 40 years out of high school held its annual reunion Thursday night at Beach Inn, Lincolnville Beach. An excellent chicken or shore dinner was served to the 19 members and guests. Badges of white ribbon with R.H.S. in green, 1901 in gold, the class colors, served as attractive place cards.

The president, Frank M. Tibbetts presided over the business meeting the same officers being elected to serve another year. The report of last year's meeting was read by the secretary, also letters and greetings from former teachers, James E. Rhodes, Ralph L. Wiggins, Gertrude Isley Padelford, letters and greetings from William J. MacDougall, Elizabeth P. Reed, Grace Green Shaw, Irene York Johnson, Orrie Fogg Merritt, Alice Dunbar Leavitt, Malvina Wentworth McConaughy, Mabel Erskine Fletcher, Regrets from Carl Casens, Frank Marsh, Lucian Thomas, Caro Littlefield, Abbie Bird Lightfoot, Martha Cobb Wood, John May, Alice Robbins Richards, John Stevens, Frank Gregory, Angus McInnis, Mabel Kalloch Rollins.

Starting an Anna Coughlin Scholarship Fund was discussed and favorably endorsed and it was voted to do something about it. Five dollars was pledged by a friend and Frank Tibbetts and Susie Sherer Morey were appointed a committee to receive donations.

It was voted to hold the reunion earlier in the Summer next year, probably the fourth Thursday in July.

Albert C. Jones was appointed toastmaster by the president.

Miss Harriet Long, being the only teacher present was guest of honor. She was the first speaker of the evening and gave a very interesting account of the Lillias Gilchrist Grace Institute at Tenants Harbor of which she is a trustee, a very worthy educational center for the youth of St. George. Miss Long spoke especially on what the reunions mean to her. Her interesting remarks were received with much applause.

Interesting remarks and stories of youthful days were given by Edna Lamson, Nina Gardner Beverage, Alice Harrington Randall, Grace Harrington Britt and Oliver Hills. Jennie Allen Wilson spoke of her encouraging work among the unfortunate youth.

Albert Jones told of interesting experiences as representative to our Legislature last Winter.

It was a fine reunion but many familiar faces were missed this year. May we all make a special effort to be present next year.

Those present were: Edna Lamson, Nina Gardner Beverage, Alice Harrington Randall, Susie Sherer Morey, Frank Tibbetts, Oliver Hills, Harry Mayo, Herbert Richardson, Thomas Costello, Albert Jones, Emily Sprague Murray, Jennie Allen Wilson. Guests were: Mrs. Carolyn Jones, Mrs. Grace Britt, Mrs. A. C. Jones, Miss Long, Mrs. Herbert Richardson, C. S. Beverage, C. H. Morey.

Know Their History

Time Turns Backward For the Camden-Rockport 150th Anniversary Celebration

The 150th Anniversary Celebration of the towns of Camden and Rockport, to be celebrated by a week's program of events, starting Thursday, Aug. 14, is going to be a huge success from one point of view anyway—the residents of these two towns will know more history of the region than has been acquired on a community-wide basis here for 150 years.

Old history books have been dusted off, old buggies and coaches dragged out of barn lofts, costumes out of attic trunks, old houses prepared for opening to the public; and settlers discovered by descendants who had never heard of their ancestors before.

Practically the whole town of Rockport is turning out in buggies, hayracks, coaches and on horseback Friday afternoon to attend Town Meeting and to accompany the wedding party depicting the bridal of Nathaniel Hosmer and Mary Wheeler, which leaves Rockport for Melvin Heights at 4. A wedding supper is being served the bridal party at the Joshua Chase farm, and the bride and groom then continue by ox cart to the Snow Bowl Lodge, Hosmer Pond, for the wedding reception and program of events.

Lakewood Theatre

Barbara Robbins

"The Philadelphia Story" will be the next presentation of the Lakewood Players through the week of Aug. 25, with a matinee Saturday, Aug. 30. Heading the cast of this gay and sagacious comedy will be Barbara Robbins in the role created on Broadway and in the film by Katharine Hepburn.

"The Philadelphia Story" concerns the Lord family, Philadelphia Main Lines of wealth and social standing. Shining star of the Lord family is the eldest daughter, Tracey, who is about to marry for the second time. Complications arise to upset her happy wedding plans when her first husband returns, a writer and photographer from the pictorial magazine "Destiny" arrive to do a feature on her wedding and her family and she discovers that her fiancé, a self-made man from the coal mines, is in reality a snob and hypocrite.

Lillian Hellman's famous drama "The Little Foxes" with Ann Mason in the Tailulah Bankhead role will be given its final Lakewood performances next week including a matinee Saturday at 2.30.

WAGE AND HOUR LAW

Maine Payments In July Amounted To $9921—Back Wages

Two hundred thirty-four Maine workers have received payments of back wages amounting to $9921 during July, as a result of enforcement of the Wage and Hour Law in this State, it was announced by William P. Shannon, senior inspector in charge of the Division located in the Federal Building in Portland. The back wage represents the difference between what the workers were actually paid and what was due them under the minimum wage and overtime compensation provisions of the act. These requirements at the present time are a minimum of 30 cents an hour, except for such industries for which higher minimums have been established by wage order, and time and one-half the regular rate of pay for all hours worked in excess of 40 a week.

At the same time it was announced that $111,347 was paid in back wages to 3652 employees during July in the five States of Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, and Rhode Island.

GUARDIANS OF OUR COAST

What our lightkeepers and coastguardsmen are doing to protect coastwise shipping by day and by night. The day's news from many lonely outposts along Maine's waterfront.

PORTLAND HEAD

Where, oh where, have the Lightkeepers gone?

Here we come again. There is an old saying lurking in my mind, "If time was money I'd be a millionaire." That may prove true in some instances but far be it from Portland Head Light. It seems the clock hands just whizz around and where the time goes would be hard to define. One thing we do know—Tuesday night could be called a peppy night, one to be enjoyed by those in favor of cooler weather while the opposite side move about quite lively closing doors and windows and laying another log on the fire. We hope the cool spell is only a sample thrown in our direction as we (some of us) prefer warmer days and nights.

The Sterlings entertained as week-end guests Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sterling Jr., of Portland. Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Walker joined the party Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Dow and granddaughter Prentiss Dow were picnic guests last Saturday evening at the station.

Mrs. R. T. Sterling was recent guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sterling, Jr. in Portland.

Commander Sampson U. S. C. G. visited the station recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Grant and children called on the Hills last Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. R. T. Sterling was over-night guest Tuesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sterling Torrington Point, Peaks Island.

Arthur Harlow of South Portland called on the crowd Wednesday.

Hits At Boothbay

"Night of January 16th" Starts Next Wednesday—"Craig's Wife" Tonight

Tonight at 8.30 the Boothbay Playhouse will give the last performance of the Pulitzer Prize play, "Craig's Wife," and "Ladies of Old Wiscasset" will trip down the center aisle for the last time, to take a well-earned bow. Eight or ten have been present each evening, and in their ancestral costumes, rescued from attic trunks, they have caused quite a commotion and much applause.

Joseph Hubbard, whose father was a captain of a full-rigged clipper ship sailing out of Wiscasset to European ports in the heyday of the historic town was an interesting guest speaker Wednesday and announced that $111,347 was paid in back wages to 3652 employees during July in the five States of Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, and Rhode Island.

Old Folks Are Ready

Just Waiting the Day When Three-Quarter Century Club Meets

The 17th annual meeting of the Three Quarter Century Club will be held at the University of Maine Campus, Orono, Tuesday, Aug. 26. All Club members are invited to be present as an interesting program is being arranged.

Frank H. Holley of North Anson is serving for the 17th consecutive year as State Chairman of Transportation. He has appointed C. Earle Ludwick of Rockland as chairman of transportation for Knox County who has efficiently taken charge of this matter for a number of years. Mr. Ludwick has in turn, appointed the following local chairmen who will make arrangements for Club members living in their communities to be conveyed to and from Orono: Appleton, Maynard Brown; Camden, Allen Payson; Cushing, Clarence Wales; Friendship, Alfred Morton; Hope, Elmer True; Isle au Haut, Mrs. Jeanette Turner; North Haven, Lloyd Crockett; Owl's Head, Mrs. A. B. Borgerson; Rockland, E. R. Veazie, Cleveland Sleeper and Arthur D. Fish; Rockport, Arthur Walker; St. George, Alvah Harris; South Thomaston, S. O. Hurd; Thomaston, A. Thur McDonald; Union, Walter Ayer; Vinalhaven, Mrs. Ellen Thomas; Warren, Mrs. Nettie S. Vinal; Washington, Mrs. Clara Overlock; Matineus, Horace Young.

If the members of the Three Quarter Century Club who wish to attend the meeting will get in touch with their local chairman, conveyance will be provided for those who find it impossible to attend without seeking means of transportation. All members are requested to bring a picnic lunch, Orono furnishing coffee for the group. The program will begin at 10.30 a. m., D.S.T., with the president John H. Merrill of Auburn in the chair.

Thursday evenings, Mr. Hubbard sailed with his father for four years, the first four years of his life, as in those days captains used to take their families with them on their sailing journeys. This evening Rev. George C. Chiera will speak at curtain-time.

Next Wednesday the most unusual play of the season, "Night of January 16th," will open a four-night engagement at the Playhouse. It is a mystery comedy drama with scene in courtroom and it is said to be based on the story of the death or disappearance of the late Ivar Kreugen, Swedish match king. One of the important witnesses will be Sigurd Jungquist, played by Mischa Plisko, Russian actor who has won popular acclaim for his extraordinary ability at fine characterization.

Twelve jurors will be drawn from the audience each evening and have the unusual experience of witnessing a professional performance from the jury box on the stage.

"STEAMBOAT LORE OF THE PENOBSCOT"

"BOSTON"

"Steamboat Lore" will tell in vivid pictures and informal yet authentic words the intriguing story of the rugged days of steam on the Penobscot. See the old steamers once again. Learn of their intimate doings and of the trail blazing men who ran them.

"Steamboat Lore" begins with the "Maine" and the "Patent" — carries through the roaring days of the growth of steam to the Golden Age of the "nineties" with its wars and its amazing development—and continues down the sunset trail to the present. You will know these boats—and love them, too.

It is the story of "Steamboat Days" revised, augmented, with many additional pictures and stories.

Copies ordered for November delivery, $3.50.

In The Last Inning

Disaster Overtook the Pirates When the Game Appeared Won

The Bangor Air Base behind clever pitching Toomay, who made four straight hits, beat Pirates Sunday 8 to 5.

The Pirates were leading 8 into the ninth by a 5-3 margin when the boys from Bangor, five hits and a couple of misplays by the Pirates sewed up the game with five runs. Toomay's doubles and two singles led teams at bat while Raymie got a double and a triple for Pirates.
